

In 1884 on Cobblestone Island, all nine Children of the Light take part in a festive Christmas program that brings many surprises. A new auditorium is constructed just for the big event. However, disasters in rehearsals leading up to the main event nearly cause the cancellation of the Christmas service itself. Two troublemakers pulling pranks, costume and prop disasters, and animals on the stage create chaos beyond belief. Throughout the problems, a wondrous occurrence takes place during the service that creates the greatest surprise of all! In the end, Madelaine's kindness and Gabriel's goodness, two Fruit of the Spirit, shine through. This fourth book in the Children of the Light series will make readers smile. At times humorous, but respectful and reverent, the story encourages readers to reflect on what a Christ-centered Christmas celebration is all about.

Based on the Fruit of the Spirit
Galatians 5:22-23

See how each Fruit of the Spirit is discovered in the lives and adventures of the nine Children of the Light. The fourth book in the series focuses on goodness and meekness (kindness).

Nine kids. Nine gifts. Nine blessed.
