

DIRECTORY

ABOUT THIS DIRECTORY

This directory lists our Group members at the date shown in the footer. The entry for a group may include some or all of the following information, depending on what we have had permission to share:

GROUP NAME

WEBSITE

Contact name

Contact email

Address (this may be the contact's address or the place where the group meets)

Postcode (as above)

Contact's telephone number

Other information about the group.

If you would like to find out more about a group for which there are no details, please get in touch and we will contact the group coordinator on your behalf. You need to explicitly state in your message that you are authorising us to share your contact details.

Note that some groups are closed and unable to accept new members.

Please do not ask us to forward details of an event, competition or publication to individual groups but, instead, advertise it through the website, newsletter or Link magazine.

If you need to update the details for your group's entry, please ask your NAWG coordinator to get in touch with the membership secretary.

Alan Shrimpton

alan.shrimpton@btinternet.com

We are a small group but mixed in every sense of the word – male and female, published and non-published, young and not so young, working and retired – and won the NAWG Best Anthology Award in 2013. When not doing exercises to develop their skills, our members write modern fiction, historical fiction, science fiction, fantasy, travelogues, humour and poetry. We meet one evening in the 2nd week of each month, rotating through Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday to cater for those who have other regular activities. Membership is £25.00 per annum. Please e-mail if you would like to know more, or to arrange to come along for a free taster session.

WREKIN WRITERS

wrekinwriters.co.uk

wrekinwriters@gmail.com

We are a large group of writers from all over Shropshire, with a diverse range of writing interests. We meet on the third Saturday of the month from 10am until 12 noon, at the Wrekin Housing Trust offices, just on the outskirts of Telford Town Centre.
