

Some moments you would give anything to live over again, others you would happily erase from your mind. But, what if you had a choice? Imagine being able to choose to relive your most precious memories...but at a cost. Your best day in exchange for having no recall of another day. However, you don't select this second day, it's chosen for you. Everything about that day is gone. Forever.

Would you take the risk?

I did.

I bought 'The Power of Dreams' straight away: everybody did. Not one of my best decisions though. If only I could turn back time!

1. What has the narrator in the story chosen to do?
2. Do you think that the narrator has made a good decision? Explain why.
3. If you could pick your best day, what would it be?
4. Who do you think invented 'The Power of Dreams'? Why might they have invented it?
5. Why might the narrator want to turn back time?

Be a detective.

How can you improve your memory?
Find out about memory world records. How well can you do?
Find ways to prevent memory loss.
Kim's game is a memory game. Create a memory test for someone.
Plan your best day. What will you do? Who will be there?
Which countries turn their clocks back, or forwards in spring and autumn? Why do they do this?

A Starter for 10