Project approach

Companies are confronted by the challenges of ecological, social and digital transformation of society and the environment. However, also in these areas advantages and profits can be generated. Business cannot only be considered from the financial-side but such aspects should also be included in company accounting.

Project aim

Extending unidimensional accounting to include 3 further aspects of corporate management:

- Effects on society
- Effects on nature
- Developed know-how

Innovation Project QuartaVista

A navigation system for value orientated companies

Project implementation

Companies should consolidate how they manage society, nature and knowledge by implementing additional KPIs. For this reason, the project is developing a navigation system for value-oriented companies.
