What is so good about this Mule Deer, Elk, Antelope, Bear and Mountain Lion hunt.

Let's start with over 310,000 acres of game rich ground.

Youth Guided Cow Elk and Adult assistance Hunt down to only $ 1495

Lease hunting is available. DIY/Semi-Guided/Guided hunts available

If you don't draw a deer license a voucher is free. If you have more than 1 point save your point and use the free voucher. If you miss applying for the draw, he may have a voucher left over but those that book have the priority.

Some of the best deer, elk and antelope hunting in the nation.

If you want to hunt the private land DIY and not pay for his lodging there are options for hunting but staying in your own motel.

Hunts priced for the working man.

The only bad thing.... He is already 50% full so it will fill quickly.

This outfitter understands the hunter's budget but also that some have the desire to have a guided hunt VS DIY so he offers both on private land and landlocked BLM. The hunts are for Elk, Mule Deer, Bear, Pronghorn and Mountain Lion. With chunks across the west his hunting ground is totaling 310,000 acres or more. The land allows him to provide hunts in many GMU's or units across the norther part of the western slope of Colorado. This includes GMU011, as a primary but also GMU022, GMU023, GMU023, and even GMU211.

With this much ground to hunt he has all the different habitat zones available which allows him to hunt agriculture land as wheat fields, Hayfields and even corn fields. The wild habitat includes but is not limited to oak brush, cedars, pinons, junipers, rolling hills of sage brush, and canyons, cotton wooded river bottoms, aspens and dark timber with pockets of open pastures. Of course, for water sources he has rivers, ponds and creeks, This cover 6000 feet in altitude sage brush hills to 12,000 feet, timber and timberline.

There are many lodging options but is mostly decided by where you hunt, which ties to when you hunt and what you are hunting to put you right in the game, early seasons, middle of the season or late seasons.

Local guides have the savvy from many years of hunting here and guiding my clients provides a skilled guide to put you where the game is and connect with you bull or buck. The hunts are restively low impact but you need to be prepared to walk two or more miles in these altitudes to stick your head into the many hidden honey holes on the ranch.

We book up early because we only hunt the land lightly to continue to have the game and the quality level we have been known to have in the past years.

With all of these GMU's and all of the license attached to these GMU's there are many license combination available that will work without properties. The one that provides us the most problem today is the mule Deer but with 1 point you will draw. For those with 5 points or more we have landowner vouchers that we will give to you free with the hunt to use so that you can continue to build your points for your earlier plan, and hunt with us as well. No one offers this flexibility but we are unique and truly driven to provide you with a hunt that will fill the back of your truck with horns.

HUNTING Details

We have 1 on 1 hunting, the standard 2 on 1 guiding and for economy we offer 3 on 1 guiding.

We hunt from horses, Motor vehicles, as trucks and ATV/side by sides and of course boot leather depending on your game and your ability.

We also have special hunt for youths and Handicapped hunters that bring an assistant or another hunter to assist them.

We do a lot as you can see to put you onto game. Please shoot as much as possible during your pre-season so that you and your rifle are 1 and speed and accuracy is everything when it comes to hunting the west.

Our units are easy to draw. Our Archery tags are OTC & Draw with ZERO POINTS depending on the unit, and a tag in the 1st and 4th rifle seasons for elk is a draw with ZERO POINTS. Elk tags for 2nd and 3rd rifle seasons are OTC. Our Mule Deer & Pronghorn Hunts are on a land owner voucher system and don't require the hunter to draw a tag, however if the hunter doesn't have any preference points for the animal they are going to be hunting, we will put them in for the draw just as a bonus. It's still a guaranteed hunt. Our Black Bear tag is a Draw and takes ZERO POINTS. Once you book a hunt with us, we will handle all of your applications for you and submit them to the State of Colorado Parks & Wildlife for you at no cost.

Hunts are 5 days on Rifle Elk, 4 days on Rifle Mule Deer, 3 days on Rifle Pronghorn, 3 days on Rifle Black Bear, 5 days on Archery Elk & Mule Deer and 5 days on Mountain Lion. You need to arrive the day before your hunt starts no earlier than 12:00 pm and depart by 10:00 am after the last day of your hunt is over, if you're staying in our lodging.

If your being packed in up on the mountain, you will be notified a time a place where to meet. Also, if your being packed in, you will be allowed only 75 pounds per hunter including your gear on the pack animal. One horse for gear and one horse for hunter. All meals are prepared in home-style fashion. Early arrivals must be previously arranged and an additional charge will be assessed for each hunter.

Many hunters want to arrive early to scout and adjust to the altitude. This is a good thing to do but for that we are not prepared but there are motels, KOA Camps and other options to stay in during those days. We put 100% of our concentrations on getting ready for your hunt.

Elk Hunts

We have some of the best elk hunting in Northwest Colorado in units or GMU's are GMU011, GMU022, GMU023, GMU024 and GMU211 for Archery and Rifle seasons. These units are known for there Deer and elk number and history. These units are all interconnected and some licenses are the same that cover every unit including where you will be hunting in one of them. The bulk of them are in what is the golden Triangle of Elk, this triangle is the summer/winter home of hundreds of thousands of elk every year. Yes, you will see elk. GMU24 for example is predominately higher altitude and the elk will be in the higher altitudes early in the season but will begin their migration first and migrate west and south and they head to their wintering grounds and begin arriving in November and December. Now, to throw a curve in it, elk don't migrate by a calendar date, they migrate the safe high ground in route to the not as safe low ground when the snow depth inhibits their finding grass easily. There is no set date when that happens or where it will happen, for instance if the area they are in has tall grass because the north side of the mountain is moister, the snow can be deeper, and they will stay because grass is still accessible. I have seen times that they will stay in a safe area and paw through 8" of snow to eat where they feel safe.

On the other hand, if they are on the south slope of a mountain the ground tends to be dryer and grasses grow shorter, and they will move, until the sun burns off the south side slope. Put these variables along with there are elk that stay at 11,000 all year in cover by an open meadow where the wind keeps the exposed meadow snow blown off. I have elk at the low altitude in scrub oaks that block the wind and snow and provide them the safety that they would have at the top of the mountain. Now add to it each herd of 5-5000 have a lead cow that has 14 seasons under her belt and will do what she feels is best, it worked because she has lived through 14 years so she may only migrate down to 8000 feet. What I am trying to display is that elk in general have a mind of their own and no one knows what a elk will do but uses historical similarities to make their best guess. In this case you have the increased odds of finding them because of the large volume of elk in this area in summer and winter and in-between. These are all premium units with high elk populations locally and migrating in and through them.

We don't have good elk numbers, we have GREAT elk numbers since Colorado hosts around 450,000 elk and we have more than our share. Of course, all our hunts are fair chase only so it is imperative that you practice with your bow or rifle before you arrive. You will be in elk, but only you can make a good shot. In the timbered areas the shots average around 250 yards and their chest is a 30x30 area. In the more open areas or across meadows 300 yards can be needed. I always say if you need to shoot at 200 yards, then practice at 300 yards then the 200 yard shots easy. In the field always use a rest for your rifle for success. You can bring a bi-pod, shooting sticks, and other devices or if available when you shot is available the top of a sage brush with a coat draped over it or laying flat on your belly which usually provides the steadiest shot. Many animals have faded in the cover and a hunter standing up with a warm rifle. We never recommend off hand shooting. Excitement and breathing can make a 50 yard shot a miss if you are standing. Ask your guide when in the field so that you and he are in sync before the moment comes. Standing still for a long time is not the strongest skill of an elk. Getting into cover or out of sight on the other hand is though. You must remember your time starts when the elk sees you. Getting into position for the shot is also on your clock, he may not stand there very long.

Our elk hunting areas as most of the state are in 4-point or better as most of Colorado units, thereby increasing your chances of taking a mature bull elk. Typically, our hunters achieve a successful harvest on 4x4-point or better bull elk, with most bulls running in the 5x5 to 6x6 point range. They are generally scoring in the ranges from 250"-300" with a chance at some over 300".

The terrain you will hunt varies from dark timber, aspens, rolling sage hills, hay fields, river bottoms, open meadows, dense oak brush, pinon-juniper trees & cedar trees. No matter what your hunting terrain preference or your physical condition we have a spot for you.

Most of our hunt are drive, glass, spot and stalk, but not all.

For the hunter who prefers to put tasty elk steaks in the freezer rather than antlers on the wall, we also offer cow elk hunting at a reduced rate. Our cow elk hunts take place on the last 3 days of November. We also have a kids hunt for cow elk that we run in December. These big game herd reduction hunts help to control our over-abundant elk herds. Colorado's herd is larger than all the other 6 western elk states put together, that is called elk density, and our area and north of us have the highest elk density in the world.

Our elk hunt tags are easy to get with two seasons being OTC and two seasons being a draw tag with zero points and even at a second choice.

If you like hunting elk or need one for you wall or meat in your freezer this is the place to be with a rifle or bow.

As we say in the west hunting deer and elk is like hunting a moving target because during the hunting season both deer and elk are moving. Add the mid November rut to the mule deer and where the deer will be at any given time is hunting or searching for a moving target.

Mule Deer Hunts

Our units contain some of the best Mule Deer hunting in the west and the populations has been just exploding in the last few years. You will see deer. You will shoot at Mule Deer. If you practice with your

We have great private land to hunt, and with the public land around us the deer hear the first shot and they quickly leave the high pressure hunted public areas and come into our private land areas to increase our deer density even more so. Our shot opportunity is 99% and has always been 100% but I never want to overestimate the unknown future to anyone.

We have our deer hunters on an outstanding success rate of 100% for more than three years running. The bucks taken are averaging 159"-181" and a few around 200".

Our mule deer hunting ranches are in what is known as some of the best country in Northwest Colorado. The terrain is rolling sage hills with draws and canyons, hay fields, river bottoms, meadows, juniper-pinon trees, cedar trees, that offer you some exciting hunting adventure experiences.

The high desert arid ness of the low land to the high country all have deer. You will find them living and eating in brushy areas and going to higher areas as timber so they are less accessible. Ad to this their migration is determined by the moon but snow can expedite that travel requirement.

As we say in the west hunting deer and elk is like hunting a moving target because during the hunting season both deer and elk are moving. Add the mid November rut to the mule deer and where the deer will be at any given time is hunting or searching for a moving target.

Our mule deer hunts can run when bucks are batched up into bachelor herds to during the rut and we do have landowner vouchers available to assist of hunters if needed. Some of our units don't take any points to draw depending on what season & GMU it is for.

So, if you are looking for a big buck, we have it. Tell your wife you found it, then after the hunt show here your big buck, it is just a natural.

Antelope Hunts

We have some fantastic antelope hunting in Northwest Colorado. Our Colorado antelope hunts are conducted on some of the finest private ranches.

Northwest Colorado is famous for its large herds of antelope and is consistently producing record-class animals. Northwest Colorado is one of the most sought after trophy antelope hunting areas in the West.

Our ranch antelope management is extreme, and our antelope hunters have achieved 100% success rates on nice bucks for the last three years. In addition to our excellent resident antelope herds, hunting pressure on nearby properties causes more antelope to migrate onto the private land. For our archery antelope hunters, we have pre-set blinds at established and scouted water holes.

We do receive a limited number of "landowner vouchers" each year for our hunting clients who prefer not to wait out the drawing process.

Bear Hunts

Our Bear Hunts are in game managements unit GMU011 and GMU024 that have a large amount of scrub oak, serviceberry and choke cherry vegetation. This vegetation is very dense thick cover and produces acorns and berries that the bears love. Due to this there is a very good bear population in these units. Our Black Bear Hunts are offered during the month of September only. This is the time Black Bears are spending more and more time each day gorging themselves on berries and acorns. It also makes water sources good because with the eating and the heat they water every 4 hours or so.

It is not uncommon that when they find a place with a lot of feed, and a close water hole together they will pattern to that water source.

During this season we will do a lot of glassing to locate bears as they forage. We see a wide range of colored black bears, everything from black to cinnamon, and in more recent years, lighter blonde colored bears have been spotted as well. The average bear will be 250 pounds, though we see bears each year up to the 500 pound range. Our bear hunts 2 to 1 or a 1 to 1 and are all fully guided. Our guides are experienced and knowledgeable. Our Black Bear hunts are all guided and are all spot and stock. Colorado Bear hunting is all free range hunting so it can require some physical conditioning. We can customize hunts to your needs and requirements.
