

We are approaching the midway point in our series The Deeply Formed Life. How are you doing on this journey? Have you taken time to pause, to be still, to be quiet and to listen and soak in God's gracious hospitality and presence? Were you challenged or stretched as we considered what it means to join Jesus in the important work of Racial Reconciliation? Resources to go with these are below.

We continue the series this Sunday by taking time to look within, to dig deeper below the surface of our lives. We will be led by Butler members Terry and Debra Brensinger, in a powerful time of guided prayer and interaction that you won't want to miss! We will have worship and fellowship around tables, so bring your coffee and an expectation for God to speak! I can't wait to see you there!

Each of the values we cover in the Deeply Formed Life series are explored more fully in the book by the same name by Rich Villodas. You can still pick up a copy at church, or find it online. It is filled with so much great insight and practical instruction for us.

Let's continue to grow deeply in Christ and watch for the fruit he produces in and through us!

Blessings,
Pastor Scott

Series Resources

- The Deeply Formed Life, Rich Villodas
- Sunday series playlist on Youtube

Pressing Pause

- Pause app, John Eldridge
- The Daily Audio Bible
- Rule of Life podcast

Racial Reconciliation

- The Myth of Equality, Ken Wystma
- Jesus & John Wayne, Kristin Kobes Du Mez
- The Color of Compromise book or video series, Dr Jemar Tisby
- Unsettling Truths, Mark Charles & Soong-Chan Rah
- Embracing Beloved Community, group Bible study by MCC
- butlerchurch.org/socialjustice

